DID YOU KNOW

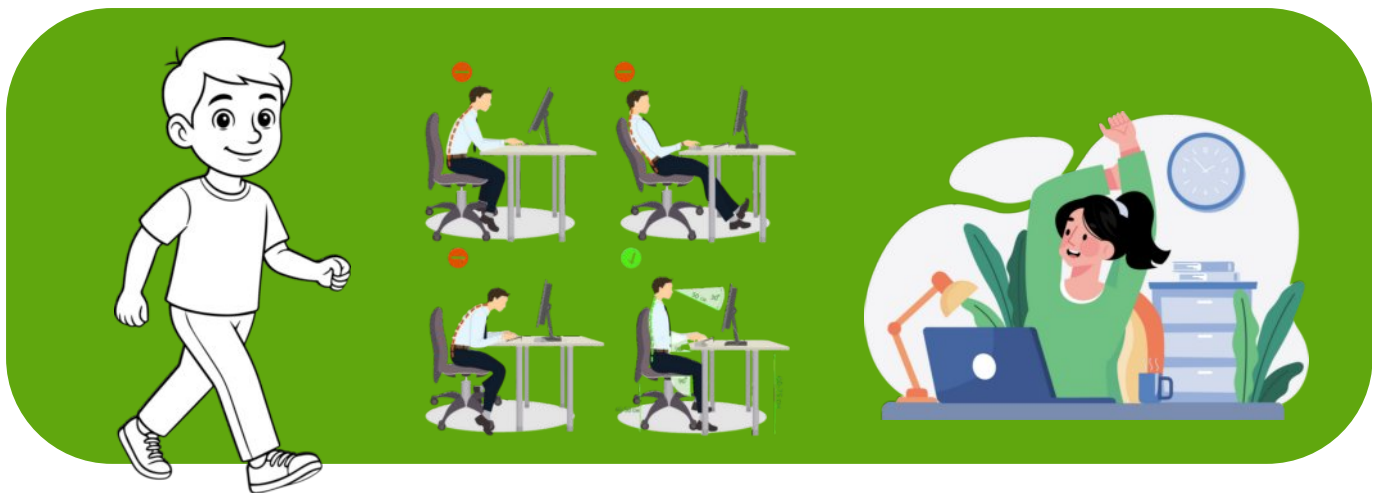

prolonged periods of sitting pose various health risks?

Sitting for long hours can affect both body and mind, increasing risks of heart disease, diabetes, weight gain, high blood pressure, anxiety, and back pain. It also weakens core muscles, slows circulation, and can even raise the chance of clots or hemorrhoids.

TIPS TO OUTSMART THE CHAIR:

- ✓ Take breaks every 30-60 minutes
- ✓ Stretch or walk around
- ✓ Use ergonomic seating positions
- ✓ Keep toilet time short (phones down!)

Remember: Small daily habits can make a big difference. By staying active and mindful, you can protect your health, boost your energy, and keep both body and mind in top shape.
